

DRY PERIOD HAS HAD BAD EFFECT ON SUGAR BEETS

The Amalgamated Sugar company is to open the Ogden and Lewiston factories about September 10 and the Logan and Burley factories a few days later. Beet digging orders have been sent out and the farmers will begin work in the fields this week.

Secretary Fred G. Taylor states, however, that there is a question as to whether sufficient water will be available at the Ogden and Lewiston factories to start the machinery at the time planned. He states that it requires about 4-second feet to operate the Ogden factory and that the supply at this time is considerably below that. Field areas are now endeavoring to get a greater supply.

Tests of sugar beets, so far this year, have shown that they are far lower in sugar content than in previous years, due, the chemists say, to continued dry weather. The average saccharine percentage in the test so far made has not been higher than 12. The normal percentage is about fifteen.

WHERE DRY FARMERS FIND THE LAND PRODUCTIVE

Apostle D. O. McKay has returned from Monticello, in San Juan county. The southeastern part of the state is growing in population and wealth, the apostle says, and dry farming is proving a big success.

One farmer seeded his land to wheat four years ago and has regularly harvested since then without re-seeding or plowing.

The lack of transportation is one drawback, but farmers are feeding the grain to livestock.

Apostle McKay says year-old calves are selling at $27 in that district.

We absolutely guarantee the "WHITE SISTER"; it is one of the greatest plays ever produced. COME EARLY and avoid the crowds. Open continuously from 2 until 11, THE OGDEN THEATER, TUESDAY, WEDNESDAY, THURSDAY.

FRUIT MUST BE SOLD BY THE POUND IN OGDEN

With the opening up of the local fall fruit season, according to J. Condie, state sealer of weights and measures, the state laws with regard to the sale of fruit are to be rigidly enforced. Mr. Condie came to the city this morning and held a conference with the city commissioners and City Health Inspector George Shorten.

The law, Mr. Condie stated, requires that fruit be sold by weight, except varieties that have been heretofore sold by count, such as different kinds of melons. The sale of fruit by the box, basket or other receptacle is prohibited and the housewives are instructed to demand that the fruit they purchase be weighed. A number of complaints have been received at the local health office, which also handles the weights and measure work for the city, from housewives who have been short-weighted on fruit in various ways and the rigid enforcement of the law is expected to be a big protection to them.

MANAGER OF STREET CAR LINE BACK FROM EAST

P. D. Kline, manager of the Ogden, Logan & Idaho Railway company, has returned from a trip east, where he inspected cars in course of construction for the interurban line between Ogden and Preston, Idaho. He states that the coaches are rapidly nearing completion and that six or eight of them will be shipped from St. Louis in time to reach Ogden, September 25, which gives assurance that there will be sufficient rolling stock on hand for the operation of the cars between the two points for the October conference. The other cars will be on hand by November 1.

Mr. Kline states that in St. Louis and Chicago the temperature ranged at about 47 degrees, and that a light overcoat was comfortable in the evening. Business conditions are better than heretofore, he says, and the prospects are that a good, brisk fall business will prevail.

OFFENDERS IN POLICE COURT

A second continuance of the preliminary hearing of the case of the State vs. Jens Horsley was granted by the municipal court judge this morning, this time at the request of Assistant City Attorney R. H. Baumunk. The defendant is charged with adultery and his preliminary hearing was to have been held today. The reason for the continuance was the absence from the city of one of the chief witnesses for the prosecution and the hearing is now set for September 8.

Jack Hazen, charged with a misdemeanor of an offensive nature, entered a plea of not guilty and his trial was set for September 7. John Johnson and Jack McCarthy, plain drunks, were given suspended sentences, and Frank Nallin drew five days. Nallin was arrested last night on lower Twenty-fifth street by Patrolman Wooten on a charge of drunkenness
